

WASHINGTON, D. C., SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 2, 1916—PART 5—PAGES 1-4.

Horace Milan Farmed to Minors—Errors Give Dodgers Victory in Tenth

ERRORS IN TENTH BEAT THE LOCALS

Bentley Entitled to Shut-Out. But Two Boots Give Brooklyn Victory.

JOHNSON GIVES BUT ONE HIT IN HIS FOUR INNINGS

Game Is Listless, Timely Stick Work Being Lacking—Griffmen Had Chances.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

Had Jack Bentley received perfect support in the tenth inning yesterday the Nationals would have gone into the eleventh inning with the Dodgers without either team getting a run.

Bentley took Walter Johnson's place on the mound in the fifth inning, at which time no runs had been scored and only one hit recorded against Johnson. Cheney allowed four in five innings. Bentley held the Dodgers in check and should have retired the side in the tenth had he not been the victim of two errors. Getz, the first man to face him in this inning, hit a sharp grounder to Schwab, who threw poorly to first. O. Miller came along with a double, which sent Getz to third, and, after Dell had fouled out, O'Mara dropped a Texas leaguer to short center. The runners did not advance on the scratch hit, but it filled the bases.

Daubert hit a sharp grounder to Foster, which the latter handled cleanly and threw truly to first, but Judge muffed the ball and the two runs came home. H. Miller's short fly to left was caught off his shoes by Roudreau after a fast forward run, and he relayed the ball to the plate, from where it was thrown to third and O'Mara, who had run home, was out on a double play.

Players Lack Gincer. It was not nearly so interesting a game of ball as on the day before. The Griffmen did not seem to have the gincer which marked their playing Friday and they went about their work in a half-listless manner, like a lot of players who were tired out. They batted as well as did the Dodgers in the matter of number of hits, each having five, but they did not play dashing ball in the field and the two boots referred to were costly.

Cheney, who up to last year was a member of the Chicago Cubs, pitched effectively during the first five innings. Bentley took the ball in the sixth inning, and he pitched well, but he was not in his best form. He relied mostly on his speed, but once or twice broke a curve over. Bentley, too, was ineffective, but there was not enough hitting behind him to give him much of a chance, though he had no right to lose the game when he did.

Locals Had Chances. The locals had several chances. In the second inning, for instance, Roudreau got a hit in trying to get out of the way of the ball, which was pitched inside. Getz deflected the ball with one hand, and it rolled toward second, giving Roudreau a base hit which he hardly deserved. No harm came of it, however, for the next three batters were easy for Cheney.

In the third things looked even more promising. After one out Johnson hit a liner to center for a base. Milan came along with a clean hit, but Foster's long drive to left was grabbed by Wheat and Judge popped up to O'Mara.

The Griffmen had two on again in the fourth with only one out, but nothing came of it. After Roudreau had fanned Barber, walked and Schwab put him on second with a safe drive to left. Barber, however, went to sleep off the bag and was tossed out by the pitcher to O'Mara. That probably was the last chance for the only hit made there.

Two out, John Henry drove the ball to right for a base. The score:

Totals	33	5	6	2	30	11	2
BROOKLYN.
O'Mara	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Daubert, I. B.	4	0	0	0	0	1	12	0
Johnson	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
F. Miller, cf.	3	0	0	0	0	1	0	0
Wheat, Jr.	3	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Cheney	4	0	0	0	0	1	2	0
Johnson, cf. If.	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Getz, 2b.	4	0	0	0	0	1	3	4
Getz	3	1	1	0	0	0	0	0
O'Miller, c.	3	1	0	0	0	0	6	1
Johnson	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Dell, p.	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Toll, p.	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	2
Totals	35	2	6	2	3	30	11	2
Washington	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Brooklyn	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2
PITTSBURGH.
Miller, 1b.	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Hits—Off Johnson	1	in four innings.	0
Pentley, 4	in six innings.	0	Cheney, 4	in five
Johnson, 3	in five		Johnson, 3	in five
O'Mara to Cutshaw to Daubert; Rondani to			Henry to McBride; Miller to Miller.
Cheney, 2	Hits by pitcher—By Henry
Bride), Umpires—Messers, Nallin and Klem								